McClellan on march to Richmond

THE MERRIMAC LYING UP.

Full Account of Yorktown and Williamsburg

Washington, May 6.

It is believe I that the Pacific Railroad bill will be passed by the House to-day.

The value of the rebel property captured on the high seas by our cruisers is immense. The government's share of the prize money resulting from the sale of the vessels and their cargoes will be sufficient to pay for all the vessels purchased for the navy Commodores Alden and McKean will receive about one hundred thousand dollars each as their share of the spoils, and many seamen will receive over five hundred dollars each.

—Baltimore, May 6th. The following is from the American's Fortress Monroe correspondent.

The French steamer Gassendi has arrived at Yorktown with the French Minister, also Captain Fox, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Up to one o'clock the steamers with Franklin's division had not gone beyond Yorktown, but were waiting to hear from above.

A return gunboat reports the river unobstructed, and that our gunboats had reached West Point and landed a force, which destroyed a bridge on the road to Richmond Several rebel transports were overtaken. Some were run ashore, those on board escaping and the vessels burned, and others were captured.

Later reports state that General McClellan was with the advance, and supposed to be before Williamsburg, in which direction there has been a brisk cannonading all day.

Yesterday afternoon, a reconnoissance down Jones river, and thence near Newport News was run a hore on the south side of the river, her men talking to the boats and pulling for Newport News.

On arriving they announced that they had intention of any further effort to reach our lines, and that she contained sixty tons of coal for the Merrimac. Several boats started to get her off, but were compelled to burn her, being unable to get her off the shore.

The Merrimac was in sight, but did not attempt to act there. The crew were taken to head quarters. They give a deplorable account of affairs at Richmond and a want of the troops, the latter regarding all further attempts to assist to the rebellion as utterly hopeless.

Captain Wilmer with a flag of truce went up James River to-day to search rebel boats, in which search Hill promised to co-operate. Hill also promised to send down from Richmond five hundred Federal prisoners in exchange for those released by General Burnside. Up to the hour of the steamer Baltic leaving they had not been heard from, and we are looking for them to-night.

Among the prisoners is the chief of engineers on General Johnston's staff. He states that the rebel army at Yorktown amounted to 82,000 men. He gives a deplorable account of the sick and wounded army. They will be unable to make a stand anywhere this side of Richmond.

The retreat commenced before daylight yesterday, and the rebel advance was 20 miles distant when the last gun was fired from Yorktown. On Sunday morning Gen. McClellan signalled the five gunboats to proceed up York river to West Point, and removed all obstructions in the way. Quite a fleet of steamers and vessels loaded with rebel troops were discovered in the distance, and a pursuit commenced, resulting in the capture of some of them, whilst others were run ashore and burnt by those aboard who escaped to the woods. It is said by 3 P. M. our gunboats reached West Point, at the head of navigation, thirty miles above Yorktown, frequently shelling parties of rebels who were discovered flying along the shore, and thus aiding that portion of the rebel army who were moving towards West Point to take the railroad to Richmond. Immediately in the wake of the gunboats followed a long line of river steamers loaded with troops of Franklin's whole division, 15,000 to 20 000 men. They were stopped at Yorktown to wait intelligence from the gunboat. It is proposed to land at West Point.

May. 5th.

—About 8 o'clock the enemy opened on our troops posted on the left, composed of General Hooker's Divis on and other troops of General Heintzelman's Division. The action in this vicinity was very heavy at times. The loss in killed and wounded is unknown, but is supposed to be considerable on both sides. The enemy was repulsed at all points. General Peck's Brigade substituted to the right of General Hooker's Division, soon after became engaged. Here the fring was very heavy for about two hours, during which time they were repulsed the enemy in making a charge. Our loss here was about 30 killed and 75 wounded.

A brilliant victory was achieved about 5 o'clock in the afternoon by General Hancock's brigade, assisted by Kearney's and Wheeler's batteries.

They had been ordered to the right to feel the enemy, and if possible turn their left wing. Here they were met by General Early's brigade consisting of the 5th North Carolina and 24th and 25th Virginia regiments with a squadron of cavalry, who advanced in line of battle. On coming within musket range they poured a terrific fire into them.

The enemy's line broke by the 5th Maine striken and fled, leaving their dead and wounded, numbering 200 to the former and 40 to the latter. We also took 200 of them prisoners. Among their killed and wounded were the Col. and Lieutenant Colonel of the 5th North Carolina regiment. Our loss was 17 killed and about 50 wounded. Among the former were Colonel Brooke of the 43rd New York and Major Seely of the 5th Maine, both of whom fell while cheering their men to the charge. Hancock's brigade captured two stands of colors.

Gen. Hancock remained after the fight in the two works of the enemy.

Gen. McClellan and staff arrived on the field at 6 o'clock, and remained there to the last, where his presence among the troops was most joyfully hailed. He immediately assumed command in person.

The rain has poured in torrents all day. The troops suffer much from exposure but none exp ain.

From information received from the prisoners taken the enemy will make a stand at the second at Williamsburg, reinforcements having been arriving all day. General J. E. Johnston is in command.

Jeff. Davis was at Richmond at last accounts.

The enemy's works are very formidable and extend across the peninsula this side of Williamsburg.

Tuesday Morning, May 6th. This is a beautiful May morning. The operations of to-day are not yet known. The whole army is in good spirits.

The Metropolitan prize cup.

"Eight rounds and a distance", to use jockey phrase, is the race for the Metropolitan cup; this time however it must be a regatta, since the country is so wet, it would be difficult to trust terra firma.

Amongst the crowd of boats entered, the best known are the "Buenos Aires" "Rosario" "San Fernando" "Las Piedras" and "St Nicolas". The first is manned by Costa, Elizalde and Vega; Mitre steering; dress white and blue. The second has a crew of provincials, in scarlet tunics. The third is a pretty craft with some able hands such as Sarsfield, Marsden, and Rawson; these too in full blue uniforms. The fourth has not run, having come foul of a sandbank at the start; and the fifth has been disabled by Elizalde and Alsina, who finding themselves unmanded, gave it to the same boat with Mitre and Costa.

Two rounds have been already run, the "Buenos Ayres" coming in first, by a good deal to spare. The start was very neat, and an immense concourse of spectators watched the first round, when the "Buenos Ayres" struck the turning-point marked Casalina-lom hereupon a question was raised, some alleging that Mitre ran too close and ran against the signal post. Meantime Elizalde came up in the "San Fernando," and promised to overtake the other, for a row ensued between Costa and Alsina, the latter far more excited, Costa quietly saying how to manage his oar, and threatening to throw him overboard. Fortunately Costa called out that the Rosario was coming up, and, with a long pull together, the "Buenos Ayres," which had nearly run aground, shot ahead of all her competitors. As she rounded the goal a hearty cheer was given for the "San Fernando" and "Rosario" were left far behind. The waters seemed a little tapped, and it is expected by some that they will not have strength for the 7th & 8 h rounds, when the others may pull up.

Meantime it is to be remembered that the "Meteoro" going up is a challenge cup to be put up again next year, and the temporary cup given out to-day is as much the prized as if it were permanent.

The sides were splendidly chased, having for their bodies, emblematic of the Union, massive Chambers, and supporting the figure of Argentine Liberty with an olive-branch in her hand. General Mitre is continually bowing to the ladies and she will walk more steadily in the path of progress; and Dr. Sarsfield in bass relief is driving a steam engine with the inscription "for San Fernando". A figure resembling Marmot is looking through a telescope, which H. Varela covers with his hat as if to indicate that the Metropolis, like the source of the Nile, is so concealed from view that even near-sighted people cannot see it with all the appliances of modern science.

Vegetable wool from Paraguay.

We are indebted to the kindness of Mr. Charles Murray the general Secretary of the Pharmaceutical Society in this City, for some rare samples of a description of vegetable wool, or surpassingly fine cotton, which grows wild in Paraguay and along the banks of the Bermejo.

From its excessive fineness we can hardly bring ourselves to believe that it is of the "Gossypium" genus; yet it may be similar to that which Pliny speaks of as growing in Upper Egypt on the borders of Arabia and enclosed in a fruit pod, from which the garments of the Egyptian Priests were manufactured.

The sample is infinitely finer than the best merino wool, and the shell or pod in which it grew is hard and thick.

We have been informed that in the virgin forests of Brazil it abounds, but like the oils springs in Pennsylvania, goes to waste, no person knowing of what use it could be turned to.

The seed is a little browner and larger than our Sea Island Cotton seed, but, the trees from which this has been cultivated in Paraguay, are as big as the oak and the sycamore. We call public attention to this rare natural curiosity hoping that some scientific parties will investigate its properties, and have the opinions of practical men both in England and France as to its utility in a manufacturing light.

All parties taking an interest in such matters are requested to call and inspect the sample which is on exhibition at the office of the "Standard."

TRAVELS IN LA PLATA.

CHAP. XXII.

Earthquake of Las Trancas 1836.

The Earthquake to which I have alluded was the third that I had experienced during my residence in the country; the first that I felt was in the village of Ortaerio Grande, in the province of Cordova, it was at dawn of day, on the 19th of January 1826, when we were sudd nly awakened by a shaking in our beds, and on sitting up in a st te of excitement, we heard voices in every direction crying out "tembor! tembor!! the people playing at the same time from their houses. It proved to be an earthquake, the first that had been felt for many years.—Three weeks after this awful calamity, we arrived at the Village of Las Trancas, now a vast heap of ruins; for, the greater part of the houses had been destroyed by the shock we had felt in Ortaerio Grande, a distance of three hundred miles, and the inhabitants were alarmed by the daily shocks they still experienced. With feelings of anxiety we entered the Village, and witnessed its disastrous effects. The first object that attracted our attention was a number of the inhabitants, who were clearing away the ruins of a church, the whole front of which had fallen to the ground, except one of its turrets, that stood drooping over in a angular manner. This church had been erected by its venerable Curate, now had occupied fourteen years in its construction: it was concluded a few days previous to the Earthquake; and was performed, for the first time, on the eve of most awful event, which rended the building to a pile of ruins! How was the unfortunate Curate doomed to behold his fine and solid fabric in which he had spent the whole of his fortune, and, probably, thought would have transmitted his name to posterity, crumbled in a few seconds in the dust of its ruine.—

We were much affected as we strolled through the Village, to see the inhabitants walking among their prostrate houses; for, with the exception of a few tottering roofs, the whole was a confused mass of rubbish. Dismay and terror were depicted in their countenances; since from the first earthquake to the present time, their minds were constantly excited by daily shock, more or less severe than the original one.—We heard that two villages, seven leagues distant, had been completely destroyed—At one of these villages the earth opened in several places, and water gushed out as from a fountain.

The following are the particulars of the first earthquake as related by the Curate. Two days previous to the event there was a awful storm, which uprooted trees, and occasioned much damage for many leagues around On the rising of the sun on the 19th of January, a loud noise was heard, accompanied with a tremulous motion of the earth, causing doors to fly open, and pieces of furniture to tumble from their places: the inhabitants rushed from their houses in the greatest consternation. After a few minutes the noise recommenced which continued for nearly a minute; when the church and several houses were shaken to the ground a space of half an hour then occurred, when another shock destroyed the greater part of the remaining buildings; and during the whole of that day till ten at night, several success-ive shocks nearly completed the destruction of the village.

The motions of the earth were of an undulating nature, and, as the Curate described it, like the waves of the sea: it is very evident that such was the case, from the manner in which the houses and walls were thrown down—some having fallen on one side, and some on the other. These motions have been explained by Sir Charles Lyell who says that "they are doubtless the effects of vibration, radiating from some deep seated point, each of which on reaching the surface lifts up the ground, and then allows it again to subside. As the distance between the source of the subterranean movement and the surface must vary according to the outline of the country, so the vibratory jar will reach different points in succession."

Revista Farmaceutica.

A neat little book bearing the above title has been presented to us by the indefatigable secre a y of the Pharmaceutical Society of Buenos Ayres, Mr. Charles Murray.

As a scientific institution we regret much to observe that none of our principal Doctors figure in its list of members.

This little book contains much useful information, and we doubt not that our most proficient MD's may read it to advantage.

It would be well for this country if we had a few more institutions like the one in question and fewer clubs & billiar— oome.

The Pharmaceutical Society in Buenos Aires has a wide field of action; among the Uruguay, Nankay, Rio Negro, Salado, Bermejo, Parana, and in point of fact on the banks of all the large and small rivers in the interior plants and shrubs of varied medicinal qualities abound.

The country people, in the immediate vicinity, well know the properties of these plants and though we are opposed to quackery we must admit that in many cases, they make use of them with the greatest efficacy

Along the Parana, a wild, odoriferous gum-tree grows, which, if properly attended to, might serve of greater utility than mere fire-wood.

The wild plant, which grows so plentifully in the Banda Oriental, and in many parts of this province, commonly called Mio Mio, has most powerful and extraordinary properties.

We have seen it applied to the swollen follocks of horses, with the most signal success. It is a deadly poison, and, when tormented, possesses many of the properties of ether.

We hope to see this society well supported, and take this opportunity to call their attention to the still plant of Oran, which we believe is identical with that of India, and from which we have no doubt the very best of indigo could be manufactured.

Correspondence.

June 24, 1862.

Sir—

When I started from Buenos Ayres some time since, with a venture of "notions" to sell by auction in the small towns in the camp, the result, as I anticipated, has been most favourable. Three times my stock has been replenished, and all is nearly disposed of now, with good profit. While vending my wares, I was on the look-out for a suitable place for a permanent residence, and have one in view, with a good opening. I am cautiously feeling my way with a view to be elected municipal. In this there is honour and profit. The old couple at home will be glad to hear that their son is elected town councillor for Villa Diego.

With your permission, I will now tell little Patsy to put the old horse to the buggy, and jog on to the next town. Hallo! before we go a league here is an arroyo. I hope the pass is good: let us try. Done, by jingo! stuck fast, and one of the traces broken. The first thing is to take out the traps. "Pat, you young rascal! the demijohn is nearly empty; you must have been tampering with it Pat." "No, sir, no more nor yez self." "Well, never mind; load a hand; it's no go; that house with the pine cones, and a ladder at the end, is an Irishman's; you must get help; never mind the cattle; it is only a way they have of welcoming strangers at all events, they won't bite, so push ahead." "What shall I say Sir?" "Tell him that there is a queer fish in the arroyo, and to come and help you to get him out."—We are out of that mess; let us go up to the house, and repair damages.

Dear me, what fine healthy children these are, and plenty of them, too. I wonder where they are educated. There must be an English school in the next town: no. Well, in the one farther on. Why, my dear sir, there is not an English school in the camp. Do you mean to say that the immense number of Irish in the camp give no education to their children? The matter stands thus: Father Fahey has established a good school (all praise to him for it), where a good moral and religious instruction is given. One in a thousand sends a child to be educated. Perhaps one in five hundred gets a private tutor, who is changed every twelve months, each with a different method of instruction, so that six months are spent in unlearning what the children learn each year, and the rest get no instruction at all. Now, this is a bad state of things, and requires to be mended. Would the following plan, of establishing schools in the camp, answer? Let each priest, after preparing the way, call a meeting in his district, and appoint a committee to frame regulations, form an estimate, collect subscriptions, &c., the teacher to be paid a liberal monthly salary, house-rent and the other expenses to be added; then to strike a low rate for the pupils, the deficit to be made up by subscriptions in the district. After some time the school would be self-supporting, but at first would require a fostering care. The "Standard" would give space to discuss the best plan, as it does to every other, where the interests of Irishmen are concerned. Veritas Dick, Esthen and other contributors might afford time to elucidate the matter. If the clergy take an active part, and support and attend the schools, they will succeed; if not, it is a settler.

Another want is grievously felt in the camp, but which I enter on with diffidence. There are a great many Protestants completely destitute of religious instruction. Missionaries are sent to China and Japan to convert the heathen; could not one be spared to keep those already in the Church from becoming heathenised. The great difficulty is to know who is to initiate the matter: the pastor of the "establishment" has his own flock his own flock to mind, and it is not his business to look after sheep that are not on his run. The other Pastors, no doubt, can give equally valid reasons; and the poor sheep are so long without a keeper that they do not feel the want of one. One thing is certain, that the force of circumstances will make the children Roman Catholics. People cannot live without some religion, However the subject is delicate. I merely point out the deficiency, and give it "Traslado a quien corresponde."

My last remark will have reference to the "Standard". Do you know that there are hundreds of families that do not receive your paper; you fight their battles, seek redress for their wrongs, and supply them with much useful and miscellaneous reading, and are badly supported. You may tell me that you have so many subscribers: I say they ought to be four times the number. Why, my Dear Sir, they do not seem to appreciate the advantages of the 'Standard'. Why don't they advertise? One man loses 25 tame cows, spends a week looking for them, offers $ 2000 reward, the cows are at the farm doing damage in another man's paintyard: quietude no person knows the mark: a native takes them under his protection and supplies cheap meat to the poor. An advertisement which would cost a few dollars would save him all the trouble and get the cattle. Another wants a run for his stock, a third to sell a point of sheep; a fourth to buy a point, and so on. No person thinks of advertising. By Jove! his funny to hear them: Bill, when you go to Lobos, enquire if there is not any sheep for sale; I want some." Tom, are you for the Fortin if such a man has any Rambler sale? Ned, do you know of a person knocking about your digging." Such is the way business is conducted. I mentioned to old Bay-Supper, how advantageous it would be to advertise in these cases; he only laughed at me, as being a green-horn. He is[illegible] responsible in some measure for this state of things. You ought to impress on them and show the advantages. But they will say it is for your own benefit; never mind, what matter ever cured if the patient complied and that the dose is bitter? He makes a face, takes the dose, says and thanks the doctor, because it does him good. So it will be with you: for more than 12 months you are perched on that high stool, we, sir, write nothing but write, just stretch your legs, take a trip to the Camp, it will do good both to you and the camp men and you may be certain of a hearty reception. I mean to make in Sheep-farming as it is carried on in Buenos Aires and will give you my opinion thereon.

Joseph Pepper.

July 7th '62.

LOCAL EVENTS.

We notice that our friend Mr. Meyrelles and Sawyer has removed his office to No. 122 Calle Parque. Mr. Meyrelles from his fluency in English cannot fail to be of the greatest service to all our countrymen who require their land surveyed.

THE OPERA.—We regret to learn that owing to some dispute behind the scenes there is every probability Buenos Ayres will be without the opera for the coming 2 months, our gifted country woman leaves per Saintonge we are informed.

THE WESTERN RAILWAY.—This is certainly a most rotten Company, even the very passengers in the trains have disputes. On Sunday evening, coming from Moron to town, two gentlemen had a difference, they finally settled the matter, one pitching the hat and the other the boots of his adversary out of the window; they presented on arriving at the Parque station, a melancholy instance of Railway Etiquette; we understand that the whole affair arose out of the season, versus architect, value of the cloth.

ELECTIONS.—We understand the elections passed very peaceably on Sunday. Senators—Sres Carrer, J. J. Morel, de Oca, Hornos, Mejia, Sanz Valiente, E. B. etc.

Representatives—Sres Martin Coquet, Cerdeiras, Larrosa, Leopoldo Marin, de Oca, J. M. Moreno, Arbelo.

The opposition list got very few votes. The following is the list of Senators—Sr Dn L. Torres, 830 votes; Molino, 192; Caballita, 199; A. M. de Pinto, 199; Moreno, 199; F. Elias, 199.

The following is the list of representatives—Dn Hector Varela, 118; J. Cano, 104; Sosa, 104; A. Rossi, 109; J. P. Lezica, 124; M. Olmos, 107, 104; L. Amadeo, 104; E. Saavedra, 107.

THE LIBERATOR is due this morning from Montevideo.

SAN MARTIN STATUE.—The inauguration of this statue is to take place to-day. The Government and Army will be on the ground.

CORPUS CHRISTI.—This festival and procession will take place on the 26th July.

BUENOS AIRES as an old Spanish Colony in imitation of the mother country, has always given the greatest solemnity and splendour to this feast, especially during the times of the Vice-Royalty. Now times are changed and its celebration is but a poor attempt in comparison with that of former times.

The Government have invited its civil and military dependents as well as the foreign ministers to attend at the Te Deum in the Cathedral.

Dn. RODRIGUEZ.—This gentleman one of the members elected by the Province of Catamarca to represent it in Congress, has died on the road, in the first post house after leaving Cordova for this city.

$ 1,000.—A notice published by the Directors of the Bank informs the public that several forged bills for five thousand dollars have appeared, and they are open to inspection in that establishment.

THE CAPITAL.—A wag has suggested the idea of buying a large steamer and making it the Capital, which may be then removed with great ease from Buenos Aires up to Salta or any other Province where the climate shall be sufficient water to take her.

SCENES.—The variable climate of this season has brought on a great many diseases, especially the smallpox.

9TH AND 10TH.—Almost simultaneously Buenos Ayres and Montevideo celebrate their great national anniversaries.

In Buenos Ayres, the war were preparing in 1859 for war, in 1860 dancing with Urquiza at the Progreso, then again in 1861 marching to meet him in hostile array to prepare the peaceful celebration of 1862.

In Montevideo, the 18th July 1853 witnessed the Colorados running the Blancos, at the point of the bayonet, into the Churches; the 18th July 1862, will see the Blancos enjoying their feast at the Plaza without any political troubles; the Colorados are no more, Quinteros finished them!

Such is political life in these countries! Here we have every probability of peace, but who can call affirm it: in the presence of the foolish quibbles of our deputies and Senators, about the capital!

Died.

On the 4th. instant, at Montevideo, Mr. David Stuff rn, in the 48th year of his age; he was a native of Belfast, Ireland, and resided for many years in this city.—R. I. P.

Married.

On the 5th instant, at the Church of the Merced, by Rev. A. D. Fahey, Frederick J Graham King Esq, to Miss Louisa Ellen daughter of Francis Mahon Esq., of the City.

On Change.

Monday, July 7th 1862.

Ounces sold at $12 4 and closed at 418. Few sales were made, although with a declining tendency.

There is very little coming in prices. At the plaza 2500 dry hides sold at current quotations, 2,500 do. at the saladero from the North, at $60, 300 arrobas meat as wool, $65, and 150 do barrega at 61.

There is now on 3 ships Corrientes but not full cargoes, 50 bales Cordova wool, 1,33 hides which shows a slight improvement and 2,000 salted horse hides at Bs 4.

50 tons coal ex Sartelle from Glasgow sold at 11 pounds on board.

There was a report of an important transaction of River Produce, but we have yet obtained no confirmation.

The Stock of dry hides and wool basis in the Country and City is unusually large for the time of year, and but for the terrible state of the road produce we are inf rmed would come in quicker than it could be shipped.

In Montevideo, owing to the bad state of the roads, flour is getting quite scarce, and has recently gone up considerably.

100 pipes wine, ex Ana from Barcelona, sold at 80 patacones in bond, 1175 jars oil, 12 1/2 hard rials do

50 pipes wine, ex Jaime from Barcelona, 50 patacones.

2000 barrels inferior Trieste flour, from Rio Janeiro, ex Valle, at 6 patacones, 7 per cent discount.

500 pipes wine from Marseilles, ex St Eloy, in bond, private terms.

M'Clellan on march to Richmond

THE MERRIMAC LYING UP.

Full Account of Yorktown and Williamsburg

Washington, May 6.

It is believe I that the Pacific Railroad bill will be passed by the House to-day.

The value of the rebel property captured on the high seas by our cruisers is immense. The government's share of the prize money resulting from the sale of the vessels and their cargoes will be sufficient to pay for all the vessels purchased for the navy Commodores Alden and McKean will receive about one hundred thousand dollars each as their share of the spoils, and many seamen will receive over five hundred dollars each.

—Baltimore, May 6th. The following is from the American's Fortress Monroe correspondent.

The French steamer Gassendi had arrived at Yorktown with the French Minister, also Captain Fox, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Up to one o'clock the steamers with Franklin's division had not gone beyond Yorktown, but were waiting to hear from above.

A return gunboat reports the river unobstructed, and that our gunboats had reached West Point and landed a force, which destroyed a bridge on the road to Richmond Several rebel transports were overtaken. Some were run ashore, those on board escaping and the vessels burned, and others were captured.

Later reports state that General McClellan was with the advance, and supposed to be before Williamsburg, in which direction there has been a brisk cannonading all day.

Yesterday afternoon, a reb oon came down Jones river, and when near Newport News was run a hore on the south side of the river, he men taking to the boats and pulling for Newport News.

On a rising they announced that they had intention of any one breaking to reach our lines, and had after obtained sixty tons of coal for the Merrimac. Several boats started to get her off, but were compelled to burn for being unable to get her off the shore.

The Merrimac was in sight, but did not attempt to act here. The crew were taken to head quarters. They give a deplorable account of affairs at Richmond, and a of the troops, the latter regarding all further attempts t sust ain the rebellion as utter folly.

Captain Wikar I with a flag of truce went up Jam s River to-day to meet a rebel boat, in which was Hugo promised to send down from Richmond five hundred Federal prisoners in exchange for those released by General Burnside. Up to the hour of the st Post he had seen only the boat, but heard from, and we are looking for them to-night.

Among the prisoners is the chief of engineers on General Johnson's staff. He states that the rebel army at Yorktown amounted to 82,000 men. He gives a deplorable account of the and n of their army. It they will be unable to make a stand anywhere this side of Richmond.

The r t commenced before daylight yesterday, and the rebel advance was 20 miles distant when the last gun was fired from Yorktown. On Sunday morning Gen. McClellan signalled the five gunboats to proceed up York river to West Point, and removed all obstructions in the way. Quite a fleet of steamers and vessels loaded with rebel troops were discovered in the distance, and a pursuit commenced, resulting in the capture of some of them, whilst others were run ashore and burnt by those aboard who escaped to the woods. It is said by 3 P. M. our gunboats reached West Point, at the head of navigation, thirty miles above Yorktown, frequently shelling parties of rebels who were discovered flying along the shore, and thus aiding that portion of the rebel army who were moving towards West Point to take the railroad to Richmond. Immediately in the wake of the gunboats followed a long line of river steamers loaded with troops of Franklin's whole division, 15,000 to 20 000 men. They were stopped at Yorktown to wait intelligence from the gunboat. It is proposed to land at West Point.

May. 5th.

—About 8 o'clock the enemy opened on our troops posted on the left, composed of General Hooker's Divis on and other troops of General Heintzelman's Division. The action in this vicinity was very heavy at times. The was is killed and wounded is unknown, but is supposed to be considerable on both sides. The enemy was repulsed at all points. General Peck's Brigade stationed to the right of General Hooker's Division, soon after became engaged. Here the fring was very heavy for about two hours, during which time they were repulsed the enemy in making a charge. Our loss here was about 20 killed and 75 wounded.

A brilliant victory was achieved about 5 o'clock in the afternoon by General Hancock's brigade, assisted by Kearney's and Wheeler's batteries.

They had been ordered to the right to feel the enemy, and if possible turn their left wing. The first they were met by General Earl's brigade consisting of the 5th North Carolina and 23rd and 24th Virginia regiments with a squadron of cavalry, who advanced in line of battle. On coming within musket range they poured a terrible fire upon them, which was returned with the greatest energy.

The enemy's line broke by the steam pipe stricken and fled, leaving their dead and wounded, numbering 200 the former and 40 of the latter. We also took 200 of them prisoners. Among their killed and wounded were the Col nel and Lieutenant Colonel of the 5th North Carolina regiment. Our loss was 17 killed and about 50 wounded. Among the former were Lieutenant Colonel Miller of the 23rd Virginia regiment, a brother with several of the others. Their General was badly wounded in the arm and the wounded are left for.

The conduct of Gen. Hancock and his brigade on this occasion has excited universal admiration.

A stand of colors became a trophy of the day, one god was captured, and also on the way to Wm. sburg.

Wheeler's corps of Gen. Hancock's success became known he was ordered away from several thousands of Union wounded that made the country ring for miles around.

Gen. Hancock remained for the night in the two works of the enemy.

Gen. McClellan and staff arrived on the field at 9 o'clock this morning, and went to the front, where his presence among the troops was most joyfully hailed. He immediately assumed command in person.

The rain has poured in torrents all day. The troops suffer much from exposure but none exp ain.

From information received from the prisoners taken the enemy will make a desperate stand at Williamsburg, reinforcements having been arriving all day. General J. E. Johnston is in command.

Jeff. Davis was at Richmond at last accounts.

The enemy's works are very formidable and extend across the peninsula this side of Williamsburg.

Tuesday Morning, May 6th. This is a beautiful May morning. The operations of to-day are not yet known. The whole army is in good spirits.

The Metropolitan prize cup.

"Eight rounds and a distance", to use jockey phrase, is the race for the Metropolitan cup; this time however it must be a regatta, since the country is so wet, it would be difficult to trust terra firma.

Amongst the crowd of boats entered, the best known are the "Buenos Aires" "Rosario" "San Fernando" "Las Piedras" and "Nicolas". The first is manned by Costa, Alsina, Elizalde and Vega; Mitre steering; dress white and blue. The second has a crew of provincials, in scarlet tunics. The third is a pretty craft with some able hands such as Sarsfield, Marcos and Rawson: these wear full blue uniforms. The fourth has not run, having come foul of a sandbank at the start; and the fifth has been disabled by Elizalde and Alsina, who, finding themselves overhanded, got into the same boat with Mitre and Costa.

Two rounds have been already run, the "Buenos Ayres" coming in first, by a good deal to spare. The start was very nice, and an immense concourse of spectators watched the first round, when the "Buenos Ayres" struck the turning-point marked Constitution: hereupon a question was raised, some alleging that Mitre ran too close, and signalled the signal post. Meantime Sarsfield came up in the "San Fernando," and promised to overtake the other, for a row ensued between Costa and Alsina, the latter flatly refusing to row while the former kept how to manage his oar, and threatening to throw him overboard. Fortunately Costa called out that the Rosario was coming up, and, with a long pull together, the "Buenos Ayres," which had nearly run aground, shot ahead of all her competitors. As she rounded the goal a hearty cheer was given for the "San Fernando" and "Rosario" were left far behind. The winners steered a little tagged, and it is expected by some that they will not have strength for the 7th & 8 h rounds, when the others may pull up.

Meantime it is to be remembered that the "Metropolitan" prize is a challenge cup to be rowed for again next year, and the temporary custody of it is as much the point as if it were permanent.

The side scare splendidly dressed, having for leaders, emblematic of the Union, Executive Chambers, and supporting the figure of Argentine Liberty with an olive-branch in her hand. General Mitre is cutting a figure in spite of the shot which will make more steadily in the path of progress; and D. Sarsfield in bass reads is driving a steam engine with the inscription "San Fernando". A figure resembling Marmot is looking through a telescope, which H. Varela covers with his hat, as if to indicate that the Metropolis, like the source of the Nile, is so concealed from view that even near-sighted people cannot see it with all the appliances of modern science.

Vegetable wool from Paraguay.

We are indebted to the kindness of Mr. Charles Murray the general Secretary of the Pharmaceutical Society in this City, for some rare samples of a description of vegetable wool, or surpassingly fine cotton, which grows wild in Paraguay and along the banks of the Bermejo.

From its excessive fineness we can hardly bring ourselves to believe that it is of the "Gossypium" genus; yet it may be similar to that which Pliny speaks of as growing in Upper Egypt on the borders of Arabia and enclosed in a fruit pod, from which the garments of the Egyptian Priests were manufactured.

The sample is infinitely finer than the best merino wool, and the shell or pod in which it grew is hard and thick.

We have been informed that in the virgin forests of Brazil it abounds, but like the oils springs in Pennsylvania, goes to waste, no person knowing of what use it could be turned to.

The seed is a little browner and larger than Sea Island Cotton seed, but, the trees from which this has been cultivated in Paraguay, are as big as the oak and the sycamore. We call public attention to this rare natural curiosity hoping that some scientific parties will investigate its properties, and have the opinions of practical men both in England and France as to its utility in a manufacturing light.

All parties taking an interest in such matters are requested to call and inspect the sample which is on exhibition at the office of the "Standard."

TRAVELS IN LA PLATA.

CHAP. XXII.

Earthquake of Las Trancas 1836.

The Earthquake to which I have alluded was the third that I had experienced during my residence in the country; the first that I felt was in the village of Orderio Grande, in the province of Cordova, it was at dawn of day, on the 19th of January 1826, when we were sudd nly awakened by a shaking in our beds, and on sitting up in a st te of excitement, we heard voices in every direction crying out "cembre! tembre!! the people flying at the same time from their houses. It proved to be an earthquake, the first that had been felt for many years.—Three weeks after this awful calamity, we arrived at the Village of Las Trancas, now a vast heap of ruins; for, the greater part of the houses had been destroyed by the shock we had felt in Orderio Grande, a distance of three hundred miles, and the inhabitants were alarmed by the daily shocks they still experienced. With feelings of anxiety we entered the Village, and witnessed its disastrous effects. The first object that attracted our attention was a number of the inhabitants, who were clearing away the ruins of a church, the whole front of which had fallen to the ground, except one of its turrets, that stood drooping over in a angular manner. This church had been erected by its venerable Curate, who had occupied fourteen years in its construction: it was concluded a few days previous to the Earthquake; and was performing for the first time, on the eve of most awful event, which rended the building to a pile of ruins! How was the unfortunate Curate doomed to behold his fine and solid fabric in which he had spent the whole of his fortune, and, probably, thought would have transmitted his name to posterity, crumbled in a few seconds to the dust of its ruine.—

We were much affected as we strolled through the Village, to see the inhabitants walking among their prostrate houses; for, with the exception of a few tottering roofs, the whole was a confused mass of rubbish. Dismay and terror were depicted in their countenances; since from the first earthquake to the present time, their minds were constantly excited by daily shock, more or less severe than the original one.—We heard that two villages, seven leagues distant, had been completely destroyed—At one of these villages the earth opened in several places, and water gushed out as from a fountain.

The following are the particulars of the first earthquake as related by the Curate. Two days previous to the event there was a awful storm, which uprooted trees, and occasioned much damage for many leagues around On the rising of the sun on the 19th of January, a loud noise was heard, accompanied with a tremulous motion of the earth, causing doors to fly open, and pieces of furniture to tumble from their places: the inhabitants rushed from their houses in the greatest consternation. After a few minutes the noise recommenced which continued for nearly a minute; when the church and several houses were shaken to the ground a space of half an hour then occurred, when another shock destroyed the greater part of the remaining buildings; and during the whole of that day till ten at night, several success ive shocks nearly completed the destruction of the village.

The motions of the earth were of an undulating nature, and, as the Curate described it, like the waves of the sea: it is very evident that such was the cause, from the manner in which the houses and walls were thrown down—some having fallen on one side, and some on the other. These motions have been explained by Sir Charles Lyell who says that "they are doubtless the effects of vibration, radiating from some deep seated point, each of which on reaching the surface lifts up the ground, and then allows it again to subside. As the distance between the source of the subterranean movement and the surface must vary according to the outline of the country, so the vibratory jar will reach different points in succession."

Revista Farmaceutica.

A neat little book bearing the above title has been presented to us by the indefatigable secre a y of the Pharmaceutical Society of Buenos Ayres, Mr. Charles Murray.

As a scientific institution we regret much to observe that none of our principal Doctors figure in its list of members.

This little book contains much useful information, and we doubt not that our most proficient MD's may read it to advantage.

It would be well for this country if we had a few more institutions like the one in question and fewer clubs & billiar – oems.

The Pharmaceutical Society in Buenos Aires has a wide field of action; among the Uruguay, Nankay, Rio Negro, Salado, Bermejo, Parana, and in point of fact on the banks of all the large and small rivers in the interior plants and shrubs of varied medicinal qualities abound.

The country people, in the immediate vicinity, well know the properties of these plants and though we are opposed to quackery we must admit that in many cases, they make use of them with the greatest efficacy

Along the Parana, a wild, odoriferous gum-tree grows, which, if properly attended to, might serve of

greater utility than mere fire-wood.

The wild plant, which grows so plentifully in the Banda Oriental, and in many parts of this province, commonly called Mio Mio, has most powerful and extraordinary properties.

We have seen it applied to the swollen follocks of horses, with the most signal success. It is a deadly poison, and, when tormented, possesses many of the properties of ether.

We hope to see this society well supported, and take this opportunity to call their attention to the still plant of Oran, which we believe is identical with that of India, and from which we have no doubt the very best of indigo could be manufactured.

Correspondence.

June 24, 1862.

Sir—

When I started from Buenos Ayres some time since, with a venture of "notions" to sell by auction in the small towns in the camp, the result, as I anticipated, has been most favourable. Three times my stock has been replenished, and all is nearly disposed of now, with good profit. While vending my wares, I was on the look-out for a suitable place for a permanent residence, and have one in view, with a good opening. I am cautiously feeling my way with a view to be elected municipal. In this there is honour and profit. The old couple at home will be glad to hear that their son is elected town councillor for Villa Diego.

With your permission, I will now tell little Patsy to put the old horse to the buggy, and jog on to the next town. Hallo! before we go a league here is an arroyo. I hope the pass is good: let us try. Done, by jingo! stuck fast, and one of the traces broken. The first thing is to take out the traps. "Pat, you young rascal! the demijohn is nearly empty; you must have been tampering with it Pat." "No, sir, no more nor you red." "Well, never mind; load a hand; it's no go; that house with the pine cones, and a ladder at the end, is an Irishman's; you must get help; never mind the cattle; it is only a way they have of welcoming strangers at all events, they won't bite, so push ahead." "What shall I say Pat?" "Tell him that there is a queer fish in the arroyo, and to come an help you to get him out."—We are out of that mess; let us go up to the house, and repair damages.

Dear me, what fine healthy children these are, and plenty of them, too. I wonder where they are educated. There must be an English school in the next town: no. Well, in the one farther on? Why, my dear sir, there is not an English school in the camp. Do you mean to say that the immense number of Irish in the camp give no education to their children? The matter stands thus: Father Fahey has established a good school (all praise to him for it), where a good moral and religious instruction is given. One in a thousand sends a child to be educated. Perhaps one in five hundred gets a private tutor, who is changed every twelve months, each with a different mode of instruction, so that six months are spent in unlearning what the children learn each year, and the rest get no instruction at all. Now, this is a bad state of things, and requires to be mended. Would the following plan, of establishing schools in the camp, answer? Let each priest, after preparing the way, call a meeting in his district, and appoint a committee to frame regulations, form an estimate, collect subscriptions, &c., the teacher to be paid a liberal monthly salary, house-rent and the other expenses to be added; then to strike a low rate for the pupils, the deficit to be made up by subscriptions in the district. After some time the school would be self-supporting, but at first would require a fostering care. The "Standard" would give space to discuss the best plan, as it does to every other, where the interests of Irishmen are concerned. Veritas Dick, Esthen and other contributors might afford time to elucidate the matter. If the clergy take an active part, and support and attend the schools, they will succeed; if not, it is a settler.

Another want is grievously felt in the camp, but which I enter on with diffidence. There are a great many Protestants completely destitute of religious instruction. Missionaries are sent to China and Japan to convert the heathen; could not one be spared to keep those already in the Church from becoming heathenised. The great difficulty is to know who is to initiate the matter: the pastor of the "establishment" in Buenos Ayres has his own flock to mind, and it is not his business to look after sheep that are not on his run. The other Pastors, no doubt, can give equally valid reasons; and the poor sheep are so long without a keeper that they do not feel the want of one. One thing is certain, that the force of circumstances will make the children Roman Catholics. People cannot live without some religion, However the subject is delicate. I merely point out the deficiency, and give it "Traslado a quien corresponda".

My last remark will have reference to the "Standard". Do you know that there are hundreds of families that do not receive your paper; you fight their battles, seek redress for their wrongs, and supply them with much useful and mis-cellaneous reading, and are badly supported. You may tell me that you have so many subscribers: I say they ought to be four times the number. Why, my Dear Sir, they do not seem to appreciate the advantages of the Standard'. Why don't they advertise? One man buys 25 tame ewes, spends a week looking for them, offers $ 2000 reward, the ewes are at the farm doing damage in another man's paddock: no person knows the mark: a native takes them under his protection and supplies cheap meat to the poor. An advertisement which would cost a few dollars would save him all the trouble and get the cattle. Another wants a ram for his flock; a third to sell a point of sheep; a fourth to buy a point, and so on. No person thinks of advertising. By Jove! his funny to hear them: Bill, when you go to Lobos, enquire if there is not any sheep for sale; I want some." Tom, are you on the Fortin if such a man has any Rams for sale? Ned, do you know of a person knocking about your digging." Such is the way business is conducted. I mentioned to old Bay-Side Snipe, how advantageous it would be to advertise in these cases; he only laughed at me, as being a green-horn. He is[illegible] responsible in some measure for this state of things. You ought to impress on them and show the advantages. But they will say it is for your own benefit; never mind, what matter ever cured if the patient complied or that the doctor is bitter? He makes a face, takes the dose, says and thanks the doctor, because it does him good. So it will be with you: for more than 12 months you are perched on that high stool, we, sir, write nothing but write, just stretch your legs, take a trip to the Camp, it will do good both to you and the camp men and you may be certain of a hearty reception, I am now studying in Sheep-farming as it is carried on in Buenos Aires and will give you my opinion thereon.

LOCAL EVENTS.

We notice that our friend Mr. Meyrelles and Sawyer has removed his office to No. 122 Calle Parque. Mr. Meyrelles from his fluency in English cannot fail to be of the greatest service to all our countrymen who require their land surveyed.

THE OPERA.—We regret to learn that owing to some dispute behind the scenes there is every probability Buenos Ayres will be without the opera for the coming 2 months, our gifted country woman leaves per Saintonge we are informed.

THE WESTERN RAILWAY.—This is certainly a most rotten Company, even the very passengers in the trains have disputes. On Sunday evening, coming from Moron to town, two gentlemen had a diff rence, they finally settled the matter, one pitching the hat and the other the boots of his adversary out of the window; they presented on arriving at the Parque station, a melancholy instance of Railway Etiquette; we understand that the whole affair arose out of the season, versus architects, value of thatch.

ELECTIONS.—We understand the elections passed very peaceably on Sunday. Senators—Sres Carret, J. J. Morel, de Oca, Hornos, Mejia, Sanz Valiente, E. Elizalde.

REPRESENTATIVES.—Sres Martin Coquet, Cordeiro, de Larrosa, Leopoldo Marin y de Oca, J. M. Mujica, Arbelo.

The opposition list got very few votes. The following is the list of Senators—Sr Dn L. Peres, 830 votes; Molino, 192; Caballita, 199; A. M. de Pinto, 199; Moreno, 199; F. Elias, 199.

The following is the list of representatives—Dn Hector Varela, 118; J. Casa, 104; Sosa, 104; A. Rossi, 199; J. P. Leiva, 124; M. Campos, 199; L. Amadeo, 194; E. Saavedra, 577.

THE LIBRARY is due this morning from Montevideo.

SAN MARTIN STATUE.—The inauguration of this statue is to take place to day. The Governor and staff will be on the ground.

CORPUS CHRISTI.—This festival and procession will take place on the 26th July.

DOLORES ARIAS as an old Spanish Colony in imitation of the mother country, has always given the greatest solemnity and splendour to this feast, especially during the times of the Vice-Royalty. Now times are changed and its celebration is but a poor attempt in comparison with that of former times.

The Government have invited its civil and military dependents as well as the foreign ministers to attend at the Te Deum in the Cathedral.

DR. RODRIGUEZ.—This gentleman one of the members elected by the Prov of Catamarca to represent it in Congress, has died on the road, in the first post house after leaving Cordova for this city.

$ 1,000.—A notice published by the Directors of the Bank informs the public that several forged bills for five thousand dollars have appeared, and they are open to inspection in that establishment.

THE CAPITAL.—A wag has suggested the idea of buying a large steamer and making it the Capital, which may be then removed with great ease from Buenos Aires up to Salta or any other Province where the climate shall be sufficient water to take her.

SCENES.—The variable climate of this country has brought on a great many diseases, especially the small-pox.

9TH AND 10TH.—Almost simultaneously Buenos Ayres and Montevideo celebrate their great national anniversaries.

In Buenos Ayres, the wars were preparing in 1859 for war, in 1860 dancing with Urquiza at the Progreso, then again in 1861 marching to meet him in hostile array to prepare the peaceful celebration of 1862.

In Montevideo, the 18th July 1853 witnessed the Colorados running the Blancos, at the point of the bayonet, into the Churches; the 18th July 1862, will see the Blancos enjoying their feast at the Plaza without any political troubles; the Colorados are no more, Quinteros finished them!

Such is political life in these countries! Here we have every probability of peace, but who can call affirm it: in the presence of the foolish quibbles of our deputies and Senators, about the capital!

Died.

On the 4th. instant, at Montevideo, Mr. David Stuff rn, in the 48th year of his age; he was a native of Belfast, Ireland, and resided for many years in this city.—R. I. P.

Married.

On the 5th instant, at the Church of the Merced, by Rev. A. D. Fahey, Frederick J Graham King Esq, to Miss Louisa Ellen daughter of Francis Mahon Esq., of the City.

On Change.

Monday, July 7th 1862.

Ounces sold at $12 4 and closed at 11 8. Few sales were made, although with a declining tendency.

There is very little coming in prices. At the plaza 2500 dry hides sold at current quotations, 2,500 do. do. taking from the North, at $60, 300 arrobas meat as wool, $65, and 150 do borrega at 61.

There were also 5 lots Carretas sold at retail, 50 bales Cordova wool, 1,25 lots which shows a slight improvement and 2,000 sacked horse hides at 16 rs.

50 tons coal ex Sartelle from Glasgow sold at 11 patacons on board.

There was a report of an important transaction of River Produce, but we have yet obtained no confirmation.

The Stock of dry hides and wool in the Country and City is unusually large for the time of year, and but for the terrible state of the road produce we are inf rmed would come in quicker than it could be shipped.

In Montevideo, owing to the bad state of the roads, flour is getting quite scarce, and has recently gone up considerably.

100 pipes wine, ex Ana from Barcelona, sold at 80 patacones in bond,

1175 jars oil, 12 1/2 hard rials do

50 pipes wine, ex Jaime from Barcelona, 50 patacones.

2000 barrels inferior Trieste flour, from Rio Janeiro, ex Valle, at 6 patacones, 7 per cent discount.

600 pipes wine from Marseilles, ex St Eloy, in bond, private terms.

This institution, though not exclusive in its character, will be opened with the view of affording the foreign element of Buenos Ayres a school based entirely on the home principles.
